CITY OF KIRKLAND

1987 Community Development Block Grant Local Program Policies

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

The City of Kirkland is located along the northeastern shore of Lake Washington, encompassing 6.64 square miles. The City's population is 19,165; of whom 7,325 individuals are classified as low/moderate income. Kirkland has well-established residential areas, since it has been incorporated since 1905. Commercial activities in the central business district and commercial/industrial parks are expanding rapidly.

Kirkland has an extensive parks system with over 3,000 feet of park development along Lake Washington. Park usage has increased dramatically with increased demand for baseball fields and waterfront facilities.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

The City has identified two primary groups of low/moderate income residents: senior citizens and families with school aged children.

Based upon 1980 census data, 10.2% of the City of Kirkland's residents are 60 years old or older. Many of these senior citizens live on fixed incomes. The Kirkland Senior Center served 2,240 seniors in 1984. The unduplicated count of seniors served in 1985 increased to 2,515. During the first six months of 1986, Kirkland Senior Center has provided services to 1,460 seniors. Senior Center staff estimates that approximately 20 percent of seniors served are low income.

Information obtained from the Lake Washington School District indicates that 1009 students with Kirkland addresses qualified for the federally subsidized school lunch program during the 1985-86 school year.

Based upon this demographic information, it would appear that the two population groups with public service needs are senior citizens and low income families with school-aged children.

PROGRAM POLICIES

Kirkland has two primary funding priorities: capital improvements to low/moderate income neighborhoods and the provision of public services to its eligible population.

The City has been improving its pedestrian network by constructing sidewalks which link neighborhoods to essential public services and the Central Business District. The City places a high priority on creating linkages between low/moderate income neighborhoods and essential public services and will continue to use CBDG funds to help accomplish this goal. With the development of a Capital Improvement Program, the City will also consider using CDBG funds to rebuild the City's deteriorating infrastructure and improve its park and recreational facilities.

The City has also identified services to senior citizens as a priority for its Public Service Project funds. Based upon 1980 census data, citizens age 60 years and older comprise 10.2% of the City's population. The City plans to continue providing essential transportation, recreational, social, health and nutrition programs through the Kirkland Senior Center.

The City has also identified services to low/moderate income families with school age children as a priority for Public Service funding.
