HAZARD FREE COMMUNITY PROJECTProject Description

Metrocenter YMCA is developing a project called the "Hazard Free Community." In this project we will work with the community of Kirkland to develop a comprehensive package of programs that will significantly reduce the problems of hazardous substances in that community. A plan for replication will then be prepared for use in other communities. Among the programs to be implemented will be:

- i A school curricula to introduce school age residents to key issues involving household hazardous wastes.
- ii An ongoing collection system for household hazardous waste, such as a regularly scheduled round-up or ongoing coverage by the King County Household Hazardous Wastemobile.
- iii A series of workshops and education programs for residents with the goal of having a specific percentage of residents sign a pledge to use non-hazardous products when possible and to properly dispose of any hazardous products used.
- iv An "Adopt-a-Stream" or "Stream Team" group for the community's watershed.
- v A door-to-door campaign in the business and industrial community to ensure compliance with hazardous waste regulations and proper management techniques for Small Quantity Generators.
- vi Educational materials on hazardous substances in stores.
- vii An "Environmental Excellence Award" for businesses and homeowners who use "Best Management Practices" and maximize their use of environmentally-safe products.
- viii Workshops and extension counselling to promote Integrated Pest Management for urban households.
- ix A youth action team on hazardous materials, as part of Metrocenter's youth action program on environmental protection, "Earth Corps."

The project will commence in January 1990, with funding from the City of Kirkland and the Puget Sound Water Quality Authority. We will work with the Department of Ecology to plan a certification program for the "Hazard Free Community" and create an awards ceremony and appropriate recognition scheme.
